Conference Seating

Active Collaboration

There's no such thing as a quick meeting. We spend more time collaborating today and working with others requires a completely different set of postures, and thus, a completely different kind of chair. The cobī chair flexes and adjusts to the body to support all postures and sitting positions.

Design Details

cobī was designed to foster collaboration and promote movement. Its playful design includes a flexible top edge, a flexing back that contours to support any posture and 270° of flexible seat edge to accommodate any sitting style. With one manual seat height adjustment and a weight-activated mechanism - it puts you in the best position from the start and keeps you supported throughout your meeting.
